feel, as I am sure you do, that our efforts should take the shape of pushing forward toward completion the work already begun at The Hague, and that whatever is now done should appear not as something divergent therefrom, but as a continuance thereof. At the first conference at The Hague several questions were left unsettled, and it was expressly provided that there should be was expressly provided that there should be a second conference. A reasonable time has elapsed, and I feel that your body has shown sound judgment in concluding that a second conference should now be held to earry some steps farther toward completion the work of the first. It would be called visionary to expect too immediate successs for the great cause you are championing; but very substantial progress can be made if we strive with resolution and good sense toward the goal of securing among the nations of the earth, as among the individual of each nation, a just sense of responsibility in each toward others and a just recognition in each of the rights of others. The right and the responsibility must go hand in hand. Our effort must be unceasing, both to secure in each nation full acknowledgment of the

The members of the union dined at the Arlington Hotel to-night at 6 o'clock, and several brief speeches were made. The party were then escorted to the theatre by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Armstrong, acting for Secretary Shaw, who is absent from the city.

The sudden death last night of Hector van Doorslaer, Secretary of the Belgian delegation to the St. Louis Peace Conference, cast gloom over the delegates to-day when the fact became known. Mr. van Doorslaer returned to the Arlington Hotel last night after attending the dinner given in honor of the Belgian delegation by Minister Lehaie of Belgium. He was apparently in excellent health when he retired, but when he did not respond to calls this morning the door of his room was broken open and he was found dead in bed. His death was due to heart disease, from which he had previously suffered.

Mr. van Doorslaer was 51 years old. He was a well known solicitor of Brussels, was for twenty-five years official reporter of the Belgian House of Deputies and for a year past had been clerk of that body.

HOFFMAN'S ROTARY ENGINE Promises a Revolution in Fields of Industry and Transportation.

BUFFALO, Sept. 24 .- A revolution in the fields of industry, commerce and transportation seems booked to come, as a result of the invention of a rotary engine in Buffalo. William M. Hoffman of this city is ance. the inventor. If his expectations are realized, railroad trains will make 120 miles an hour with less friction than at present, steamships will greatly increase speed and single cars will be run at lightning pace on steam or tram railway tracks, independent of trolley connections, all with much more economy than under existing conditions. On top of all that, the power in all kinds of factories will be produced at a much less cost in a much smaller amount of space

A 30 horse-power rotary engine, invented by Mr. Hoffman, is now in operation in the basement of Ellicott Square. The finishing touches are now being put on a 509 horse-power engine of the same type in the Nove Manufacturing Company's plant on Lake View avenue. It will be used to supply the power in the $200,000 plant which Mr. Hoffman is planning to uild here for the manufacture of his en-

The invention has been pronounced to be all right by prominent engineers, including P. T. Berg of Stockholm, Sweden, at one time chief engineer of the Carnegie steel plant, and now representative in Europe for American steel interests; George R. in the last few years, but Mr. Hoffman says there have been no practical results. They have all depended for their source They have all depended for their source of power on direct steam pressure from the boiler. The feature of Mr. Hoffman's rotary engine is that it makes use of the expansion of steam, the engine being cut off from connection with the boiler supply of steam for two-thirds of every revolution made. That means great economy is find and steam. n fuel and steam

But Mr. Heffman says that steam is not the only means of propulsion that can be used in his engine. He says he intends to make gas engines of the same type, exploding gas in the chamber, in which steam is used. So it is hardly possible to realize the revolution which this shie to realize the revolution which this engine will create, if it comes up to its inventor's expectations.

Mr. Hoffman was asked to mention some of the uses to which his new engine can be the Governor in a Ruling. BOSTON, Sept. 24 .- The Supreme Court, in an opinion submitted to the Governor. and Council, and given out to-day by Lieut .-Gov. Guild, declares unconstitutional the famous Soldiers' Bounty bill, which was passed over Gov. Bates's veto on the last day of this year's session of the General Court. The bill provided that each veteran of the civil war who never received bounty should receive the sum of $125 from the State.

The court does not attempt to pass upon the question of quorum, which was raised by reason of the fact that all the members of the Legislature were not present when the bill was passed over the Governor's veto, but holds that under the Constitution money can be raised by taxation only for public purposes, whereas the bounty-bill provides that taxes shall be levied for

Over a month ago the Governor and Council passed an order asking the Supreme Court for an opinion, Attorney-General Parker having previously declared the bill unconstitutional in an opinion submitted to the State Treasurer, when the latter refused to pay the bounties because of lack of funds.

LOUIS FLEISCHMANN VERY ILL.

HE FED THE HUNGRY NIGHTLY AT-HIS BAKERY DOOR.

Originator of the "Bread Line" Charity, Famous the Country Over-His Reply to Critics-War Veteran and Philanthropist, He's New at Death's Door.

Louis Fleischmann, who established and owns the Vienna bakery in Broadway, just below Grace Church, is critically ill at his home, 4 West Seventy-seventh street. It was said last night that he was at the point of death. He was brought to this city from his summer home in the Catskills last Tuesday and has been unconscious, occasional recoveries, since. Mr. Fleischmann had a severe paralytic stroke two years ago and has never recovered from it.

The best known of Mr. Fleischmann's works is the Broadway "bread line," the long single file of unfortunate and hungry long single file of unfortunate and hungry men who wait every night for the midnight dole of bread and cofiee at the back door of the bakery. For many years after Mr. Fleischmann established his bakery he disposed of the unsold bread which was returned to him at the end of each day by selling it at half price.

While his health permitted he always superintended all the work of the bakery and restaurant. Once he saw two or three hungry tramps hanging about the doors of the bakery in the early morning, sniffing the odor of freshly baked bread. He fed them.

More came. The inspiration came to him that the so-called stale bread, which was really but twenty-four hours old, might well be fed to the poor. It was made the duty of one of the employees of the bakery to superintend the dole. To the bread, which was handed out half a loaf at a time, was added a cup of hot coffee for each was each man.

So many applicants that the distribution came to be the whole duty of one man, who was called "Capt. Henry." He was assisted by two other men. Mr. Fleischmann was criticised by many professional philanthropists and sociologists as a pauperizer of the idle. He waved their objections aside with the remark that he could stand being called names for feeding men who were hungry enough to wait out under the sky in line for two or three or four hours for half a loaf of bread and a cup of coffee.

Often the number of applicants exceeded the quantity of stale bread, but some way

Often the number of applicants exceeded the quantity of stale bread, but some way was always found to keep any one from going away hungry. The distribution often reached 500 loaves.

Through the newspapers Mr. Fleischmann's dole became known all over the country. Farmers and business men got in the way of asking him if he could recommend needy men to them for employment. "Capt. Henry" and his assistants got in the way of sizing up men in the line and

"Capt. Henry" and his assistants got in the way of sizing up men in the line and picking out those who seemed especially deserving and helping them to independance. Recently a bulletin was established on the wall near the door where the dole is made, so that men in need of work could find out where there were chances for employment and apply for themselves.

Mr. Fleischmann was born in Austria on Aug. 18, 1836. His parents were well to do. He went into the army and fought as a Lieutenant in the Austro-Prussian War. His bravery in battle caused the Emperor Francis Joseph to confer two medals on him. In 1869 he visited this country, where his brothers. Charles and Max, had established in Cincinnati the great yeast industry which bears their name.

In 1874 he left the Austrian Army and came to this country to live. His first enterprise was a model bakery, which he installed at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. It was very successful, and he brought the whole establishment to New York. It has flourished at Broadway and Tenth street ever since and has been one of the recognized gathering places of prominent men of Teutonic birth and sympathies.

Mr. Fleischmann subscribed liberally to every charity which made a reasonable appeal to him. He frequently went into his own pocket when some particularly hard story his name was openly connected.

He married, in 1875, Miss Hermann of Nienna. They have five children. Two sons, Charles Russell and Otto, are active in the conduct of the bakery. The third is a sophomore at Williams College. Two daughters live with their parents in this city.

ODELL, THUMB OVER SHOULDER

TWASN'T ME, 'TWAS HIM, 'TWAS THEM, SAYS THE GOVERNOR.

Who Didn't Discover Departmental Corruption? Ask Cunneen-Who Didn't Proceed Against Hooker? Ask the Twenty-one Democrats in the Senate.

Governor-Chairman Odell left for his home at Newburg yesterday morning without defending himself from the most extraordinary plank that ever appeared in the platform of any party in the United States since the foundation of the Government. The plank is the following, adopted unanimously and enthusiastically at Saratoga by the Democratic State convention, organized under the laws of the

For the first time in its history the Empire State has a Governor whose personal integrity rests under widespread suspicion. He has surrounded himself by high officials and advisers under whose malign influence the public revenues of the State are largely diverted to private profit. the following was handed out at Republican State headquarters:

Gov. Odell was asked last night if he had anything further to say concerning the Democratic platform. He replied:

"The Democratic platform says that neither the Governor nor the Legislature has taken official cognizance of graft charges publicly made against a Supreme Court Justice of this State in connection with postal frauds and other scandals and, therefore, it charges recreancy to public duty.

"Under the Constitution of this State a Justice of the Supreme Court may be removed only by concurrent resolution of both houses of the Legislature, if two-thirds of all the members elected to each house concur. "In the last Legislature twenty-one members of the Assembly were Democrats.

"No one of them introduced a resolution for impeachment, and there is no initiative with the Governor in such cases. The Constitution gives him no right to remove a Judge of the Supreme Court for any cause. "If they believed the charges against any Justice to be true, if they had any evidence that any Justice should be ermoved, why did not one of these twenty-one Democrats in the Senate perform his duty and present articles of impeachment and a concurrent resolution which the Constitution provides in such cases. Their failure so to do is but an evidence of Democratic insincerity in their platform."

REPLY TO ODELL'S FIGURES.

Democratic Charges of Reckless Extravagance Backed Up by Campaigners. The Democratic State committee issued last night a statement replying to the one made by Governor-Chairman Odell on Friday night, in which he sought to show that the charges contained in the platform adopted by the Democratic state convention that his administration had been marked by reckless extravagance were not justified because the great growth in the population since 1894, the year of the last Democratic State government, had warranted the increased expenditures, which amounted to over $10,000,000 as compared with the sum spent by Gov. Flower's administration. by the Democratic State committee it was shown that the appropriations for 1904 shown that the appropriations for 1904 were 66 per cent. in excess of those of the last year of Gov. Flower's term of office,

"Ten consecutive years of Republican rule in the State of New York are characterized by reckless, wasteful, wanton expenditures of public moneys," the statement says, and it gives these comparative totals of expenditure: 1884.—Last year of Gov. Cleveland's administratio. 8. 1885.—First year of Gov. Hill's administration. 11.879,581.17 1891.—Last year of Gov. Hill's administration. 18.072.069.84 ministration...

1804—Last year of Gov. Odell's administration... 26,041,200.33

ministration.

1802—Last year of Gov. Odell's administration.

The appropriations for 1904 exceeded the estimated revenue of the present fiscal year by nearly four millions. They exceed by sixteen millions those of the last year of Gov. Cleveland's administration, are double those of Gov. Hill's last year, and nearly eleven millions greater than those of the last year of Gov. Cleveland's administration, are double those of Gov. Hill's last year, and nearly eleven millions greater than those of the last year of Democratic State administration in 1904. During ten years of Republican rule the population of New York State has increased but 21 per cent., and its equalized valuation only 27 per cent., yet the expenditures have increased 66 per cent.

Ten years ago a Democratic Governor went of office leaving the State free and clear of debt. Under Republican administration a bonded indebtedness has accumulated aggregating $10,000,000.

In a measure the increase in the cost of administering the affairs of the State is due to the employment of an army of useless officials, who render no return to the people for the salaries they receive.

The present partisan machine, intrenched in nearly every county of the State, has been created and strengthened by extravagant use of funds which should have remained in the pockets of taxpaying citizens.

The only evidences of recent economical administration appear to be in a department presided over by a Democratic Attorney-goneral, whose expenditures annually are $37,000 less than were those of his Republican predecessor.

CONGRESS DISTRICT FIGHTS. All in the Republican Camp Will Soon Be

The Republican Congress committee hard at work these days in endeavoring to settle the factional disputes which are raging in several Congress districts. At the headquarters of the committee it was said yesterday that all the fights would be adjusted in the next week or two, and that the only one which was likely to give trouble to the committee was that in the Third district of West Virginia. This district takes in a great part of the mountainous section of the country, where political feuds are always in progress and where some voters have to ride as many as twenty some voters have to the as rainy as event, whiles to a polling place. Joseph Holt Gaines, the present Representative in Congress of the district, was renominated, but the followers of William Seymour Edwardes bolted the convention. Both contestants came to this city yesterday lay their causes before the committee. "As soon as the committee has made its decision," the contestants agreed yesterday, "we'll join hands to beat Henry F. Davenport, the Democratic candidate."

Justice Miller Renominated. BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 24. The Republican judicial convention for the Sixth district here this afternoon unanimously renominated Nathan L. Miller of Cortland to succeed himself as Supreme Co, rt Justice. It is expected that the Democratic judicial convention next week will indorse the nomination. This being the first judicial convention since the death of the late Justice Mattice, resolutions of re: ect were adopted. were adopted.

3,318 SOULS ON THE CELTIC.

DR. PARKHURST DOWN WITH A CHILL, CAUGHT ABOARD.

Dr. Rainsford Reports the Church of England Decadent-8400 for Family of Drowned Lamp Trimmer-Umbria and

The largest ship's company that ever crossed the Atlantic arrived yesterday aboard the giant White Star liner Ceitic, from Liverpool and Queenstown. It consisted of 549 cabin and 2,388 steerage passengers, who, with the members of the crew, formed a total of 3,318 souls. An unusually large number of Irish immigrants boarded the ship at Queenstown, and more wanted to, but 100 were left behind because there were no accommodations for them. The Cunarder Umbria, in from Liverpool and Queenstown, which left the latter port a day after the Celtic, could not take any immigrants, as she had utilized all her cargo space for the baggage of her 657 cabin passengers. The American liner St. Paul, which arrived from Southampton and Cher-bourg, brought 526 cabin and 766 steerage

All three ships' cabin passengers were landed yesterday afternoon and gave the customs inspectors one of the busiest days in their experience. The inspectors had prepared for the emergency and passed the throng of homecomers and foreign visitors swiftly. The steerage passengers who will land to-day may be augmented by immigrants from the French liner La Bretagne and the Anchor liner Astoria.

The single screw Umbria had a race for port with the American liner. They encountered each other in midocean and humped themselves for Sandy Hook. The St. Paul carried away some of the packing of her port engine and was delayed, making repairs, five or six hours, on Thursday and Friday. She was also forced to stop in the lower bay until a tow of osal barges, blocking the channel, got out of the way. The Umbria got in an hour ahead of the American liner.

Among the Celtic's passengers were Viscount Benghem, Col. W. H. Blodgett, Chester C. Bolton, Henry W. Bull, T. B. Chester C. Bolton, Henry W. Bull, T. B. Burnham, the Right Rev. Frederic Courtney, Bishop Joseph H. Johnson of Southern California, Judge David Leventritt, Judge T. S. Maxey, the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, Leo A. Phillips, George L. Rives, Theodore B. Starr, Henry K. McHarg, the Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford, Henry J. White and Charles Strauss.

The Rev. Dr. Rainsford is back from a visit of several months to his native land, after a long absence, and does not like some of its institutions. He spent the time visiting old friends and relatives and at-

after a long absence, and does not like some of its institutions. He spent the time visiting old friends and relatives and attending some of the churches. He was much interested in the political campaign. He said: "It looks to me as if the prospects were bright for Mr. Roosevelt. It would be almost infamous if he were not elected." Dr. Rainsford said that the educational system of England was much inferior to that of the school system of the United States, and that England would feel keenly in a few years the non-application of the industrial system of teaching. About the Church of England the doctor said: "It is losing ground very rapidly. That is one of the natural results of the cast iron methods it employs. The preachers are not so able as they were years ago. I noted that many left before the sermons, and I was surprised after hearing the sermons that more did not leave."

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst was not on the White Star pier to overlook the examination of his baggage, as is his custom, and the reporters hunted him up. They found him lying in his stateroom attended by his wife and suffering from severe hearseness. He asked to be excused from talking because of the condition of his throat, but he invited his interviewers to tell him ness. He asked to be excused from talking because of the condition of his throat, but he invited his interviewers to tell him what had happened in local and national politics and how the Japs were making out in the war. His wife said that he had been seized with a chill on Sunday and had been confined since then to his stateroom. He had been in fine shape before boarding the Celtic and had had a good time travelling, chiefly in Scotland. He defied his hoarseness a moment to ask how Police Commissioner McAdoo was getting along. He was taken to his home in a carriage. He said that he did not believe his illness was gerious, that it was just a severe cold, rious, that it was just a severe cold of which he hoped soon to be rid.

George L. Rives, Corporation Counsel under Mayor Low, said that he was glad to learn that Judge Herrick had been nomiwith Judge Herrick, he thought no other man so capable all around could have been selected, and he believed that the Democrats would win the Governorship. Judge Leventritt said: "I do not know any man who would have made a stronger candidate. He will unite all factions.

candidate. He will unite all factions. His candidacy is strengthened by the nomination of Francis Burton Harrison."

The Celtic was delayed several hours on Monday morning while making efforts to rescue James Walker, a lamp trimmer, who fell overboard before any of the passengers except the year, early risers were sengers except the very early risers were awake. Immediately after the alarm was given by the shipmate who saw Walker fall, a life buoy was thrown toward him, and the ship was stopped and a lifeboat was lowered. The liner circled around the place while the lifeboat crew searched and the ship was stopped and a lifeboat was lowered. The liner circled around the place while the lifeboat crew searched the sea. Walker had disappeared quickly. The lifeboat picked up the buoy and returned to the ship, while a throng of passengers who had been awakened gazed over the rail. The Rev. Dr. Rainsford collected $100 for the widow and two girl children of the lamp trimmer, who was $2 years old and lived in Liverpool.

Some passengers by the Umbria were Charles Le Boutillier, Prof. T. F. Crane, dean of the faculty of Cornell University; G. B. Hunter of the shipbuilding firm of Swan, Hunter, Wigham. Richardson & Co., on the northeast coast of England, who are building the big Cunard turbines; Judge F. C. Laughlin, Capt. George Lodge, R. H. Rapley, Mortimer H. Hare, Alfred Rowe, C. B. Wyatt, Mgr. Sahak Ayvadian, Armenian Archbishop of Persia and India; Dr. Joan Louis Melikow, representing the Armenians of the Caucasus, and Archbishop Horsep Sarajian of the Armenian Church in America. The Armenians were met at the pier by M. B. Parounagian and Bishop Martoogesian of this city. The delegation was appointed by the Supreme Patriarch of the Armenian Church to present a petition to the Powers of the world, asking them to use their good offices to improve the condition of the Armenians in Turkey and to prevent further massacres. The delegation will visit President Roosevelt and lay their case before him. They have seen the President of the French Republic, and he promised to consider their appeal. They were unable to get audience with Edward of England, but hope to do so on their return to Europe, when they will also endeavor to see the German Emperor, the King of Italy and the Emperor of Austria.

Mr. Hunter said that his firm was building the triple-screw turbine Carmania for the Cunard Line and a swift $250,000 turbine yeach for Sir George Newnes, the publisher. He said that he had not come

He said that he had not come here to see about getting American steel for his ships, as the product was just as good and a trifle cheaper in England. The chief object of his visit, he said, was to see the St. Louis exposition. Mr. Hunter gave the impression that he was also building the still unnamed turbine flyer projected by the Cunard Line. He said:

"This ship will be bigger than the Celtic, and 800 feet long." He said no more on the subject, but he could not be referring to the Carmania, as she is well under way, and is 675 feet long. The 800-foot turbine, Mr. Hunter intimated, merely had her keel down. She is to have quadruple screws and a sustained speed from port to port of Grands and Uprights of Leading Makes at Prices that Will Surprise Those Who Are Judges of Quality.

This collection of pianos stands alone and unique among all similar offerings. Persons who had supposed they would never be content with anything short of an absolutely new piano have changed their minds after inspecting this collection. There are several reasons causing owners to part with instruments so entirely satisfactory:

1. The desire to replace a piano which they were unable to play with a piano which every member of the family could play. 2. Persons who were about to purchase a Pianola decided that they would prefer an instrument combining Planola and piano in a single case, thus economizing room. 3. The motive which prompts a large class of persons who can afford it, always to own the latest and best article of its kind. As a result of these and other reasons, we are able to place on sale exchanged planos from some of New York's best homes, showing hardly any signs of use and bearing the names of the best manufacturers in the country. Among the most attractive opportunities of this sale we instance the following makes

Weber, Steinway. Chickering, Steck. Wheelock, Sohmer, etc.

Both Uprights and Grands are included, prices ranging from $130 upwards. Purchasable on moderate monthly payments, graded according to the cost of the instrument.

Italians Shoot Harmlessly at Each Other on Street, but Wound a Spectator. Jealousy led a couple of hot headed talians to fight a pistol duel in Vesta and Atlantic avenues, East New York, yesterday. Raphael Bruzzello, 26 years old, attracted by the shooting, rushed out of the doorway of his home at 84 Vesta avenue, just in time to get a stray bullet in the ower part of the stomach. The duellists are rivals for the hand of The duellists are rivals for the hand of a girl in the Browns ville Italian colony. No sooner had they met yesterday than bullets began to fly and each man emptied his revolver. So far as the police of the Liberty avenue station can learn, neither of the principals was injured. Both escaped. Bruzzello was removed to the Bradford street hospital.

GEORGE GOULD'S PRESENT.

Gives a $100 Bill to a Station Agent Who Looked After His Frivate Car. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 24 .- The generosity of George J. Gould the New York millionaire, was exemplified last week to the particular advantage of Station Agent William Bishop of the village of Arkville, near where Mr. Gould's famous Furlough Lodge in the Catskills is located. The gift consisted of a brand new crisp $100 bill, all because the agent looked, so carefully after the millionaire's elegant $80,000 private car, which was side tracked at the Araville station, and prevented a curious crowd from carrying away souvenirs. Besides the cash Mr. Gould also presented to the agent a pass to St. Louis for him-

Daly Long Branch Cottages Sacrificed. Long Branch, N. J., Sept. 24 .- To save the golden domes of the Pennsylvania Club at West End from being sold at sheriff's Club at West End from being sold at sheriff's sale on Oct. 3, Mrs. Catherine Daly this afternoon sold her seven Second avenue cottages at public auction. The cottages were purchased by Angelica de Gano, an Italian banker of New York, for $24,000. The proceeds of the sale of the cottages will be sufficient, it is said, to prevent the clubhouse from being sold at sheriff's sale for the third time in nine months.
